First Beans of 1937 Season Are Shipped From Lake Okeechobee Region Tuesday

First Actual Sales Bring
$1.35 Per Hamper for Ungraded Lots

Beans in carlots rolled from the Lake Okeechobee region on Tuesday of this week—October 5th. On Monday L. W. Corrier picked several hundred bushels of beans in the Glade and these went out by truck. On Tuesday P. M. Cate, Inc., picked and shipped one solid car as well as a half car. Walter G. Hull, the local dealer, shipped a half car of beans sold on the local markets. However, Walter Hull had 121 hampers to cover a car and sold them to the Glade dealer, L. W. Corrier, for $1.35 ungraded. This is equal to $1.50 after the beans have gone through a grading-belt.

Up until last night a total of 1,000 bushels of beans of the Lake Okeechobee region this week. The Cate concern picked and shipped another half car yesterday and Walter Hull and Lennie Stuckey shipped two cars yesterday. The beans are coming from today with heavy picking starting about the middle of next week.

non-committal yesterday when questioned about bean prices. They don't seem to know exactly what the northern markets are going to do when heavy shipments arrive from Florida. Some were prone to believe that the price would remain at some mark well over a dollar.

Rain during the past week has damaged beans in some locations and growers have been held up in their plantings. However, with fair weather more heavy plantings are expected within the next few

NO VOTE FOR THE POOR
In his latest editorial blast in Liberty magazine, Bernard Macfadden advances the preposterous idea that the poor and dependent should be disfranchised—that only those who "pay the expenses of government" should have a voice in government.

Mr. Macfadden reaches this amazing conclusion because, he argues, people on government relief always vote for the administration. Hence, because "charity" could automatically keep officials in office indefinitely, they should be disfranchised.

The Macfadden idea would deprive all persons dependent on charity of the right to vote; would snatch away the citizenship of all those who through adverse fortune, illness or injury, business reverses, loss of employment or any of the "ills that flesh is heir to," are forced to obtain their support from others, either public or private. It would immediately disfranchise everybody so unfortunate as to be on federal or state relief.

Hear the Macfadden argument: "When we realize that there are approximately 10 million citizens in this country who are subsisting on government dole or on semi-charitable work relief, and that they all have full privileges of self-supporting citizens, we may reasonably ask how it is possible for such voters to 'make a free choice' as guided by their conscience and intelligence. They would naturally vote for those upon whom they depend for their bread and butter. It is well to note how careful the Washington government has been to retain control of the distribution of these charity funds. Every victim of the present financial upheaval knows the source of his benefac-tion, and the value of such a situation when votes are desired can readily be determined. The loss of a charity job or removal from the dole list would mean tragedy to such people."

We dispute the assumption that everybody on federal relief feels compelled to vote for the Democratic ticket. That is about the most far-fetched assertion of anti-Roosevelt cancer we have yet heard. And, because of that assumption, Mr. Macfadden would have every person on government relief or the recipient of private charity, every person temporarily deprived of the opportunity and right of self-support, defined the limit, for Mr. Macfadden—Tampa Tribune.

Too Late TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Key.

While most folks like to mill around and shake hands and make a big fuss over our senators and representatives when they return home from sessions, I get a lot more fun standing off in a corner and just looking on.

For the past several weeks I've been hanging 'round the fringe and watching this guy Claude Pepper without him knowing it. I just wanted to do my own checking and see for myself just what changes, if any, had taken place in Claude since he went to Washington. The boy has certainly been getting a lot of attention. They've taken him right in the fold and treated him as an equal. According to most reports about all they've done since he arrived up there is keep slapping him on the back and telling him how good he is, and that kind of medicine, while it is pleasant to take, is poison to a guy who gets an over-dose.

Well, after studying Claude at a distance on several occasions and finally getting him in a corner by himself for an hour's chat, I satisfied myself that so far he hasn't let the old baloney and banana oil get under his skin. Of course, like most anybody else, he enjoys being massaged with it, and while he's content to let the other folks tell him he's not 'featin' any time kiddin' HIMSELF.

If anything, he has improved as an orator. He's added a lot of two-dollar words to his vocabulary, but at the same time when he is talking to the folks in the country he still knows when to say "ain't" and "how come."

He seems to take his job seriously and realizes he's got a lot to learn and is downright anxious to learn it. In the brief time he has been in Washington he certainly has filled his post in a creditable manner, and Florida generally has benefited through his efforts.

His loyalty to Roosevelt and support of administration measures have made him some enemies, particularly among industrial leaders utterly opposed to the Wage and Hours Bill, in spite of the fact that it was his influence on the committee that brought about the removal of many of the most objectionable features.

Those who hope to use his loyalty to Roosevelt and the administration as ammunition with which to defeat him for reelection are allowing their personal animosity to blind them to the fact that, as much as they would have it otherwise, the president is still TOPS with the bulk of the American people and Floridians are no exception.

You and I may not agree with him on the Court Plan; we may disagree with the Wage and Hour Bill and a lot of other administration measures. But you and I are not the people. Most of them don't know anything about the Supreme Court and care less; they have never read the Wage and Hour Bill and wouldn't know what it was about if they did. But they savvy W. P. A. and Social Security and while they feel it isn't enough, they're not gonna let that guy that gave 'em what they are getting in.

While a few folks may get excited about Mr. Justice Black and the Ku Klux Klan the proposition of politicians belonging to the Klan isn't any more startling than the average citizen thinks. "Dog Bites Man." Of course it may be wrong and all that, but it's being done right along and it's hard for the poor fellow out in the backwoods to figure out what all the shoul'n is about.

If Mr. Black had just come out and said so in the first place he'd have made it a lot easier for Mr. Roosevelt, himself and everybody else. If it was Franklin D. feel that there "Ain't no JUSTICE."

SOME OF THE REASONS

Someone has asked why Comptroller J. M. Lee has publicized the fact that the state's general revenue fund hasn't enough money to pay the bills.

A likely question—and one very easily answered. The first answer is that "it worked" before. In other words four years ago when the same fund was broke, Comptroller Lee and the then governor joined in an appeal to Floridians to pay their taxes so the state could pay its bills.

Everyone familiar with the facts will have to agree that it worked—in spite of a much worse situation then than now, and in spite of the fact that many interests were clamoring for a special session.

The only fly in the ointment at this time comes from a stranger source. When Collier county's taxpayers responded several weeks ago and half of them paid up their 1937 taxes ahead of time so that the state would have the cash for the "short" or "dry" period between tax collection periods, the present governor practically told them to mind their own business that the state didn't need their money.

Perhaps he is right—but the state can't pay off with eight coupons or bottle-tops—and after Oct. 1 that is about all there will be available unless some effort is made to rally the tax payers to their responsibility. The shortage will last until the tax collections begin to come in along with the

It certainly is not fair for the state to stick its head in the sand like an ostrich and refuse to advise those who are entitled to be advised and decline to advise those who might help, and who in the past have disclosed their willingness to help.

The last thing any of us want is a special session. It can be reason—that is important among avoiding by keeping the people advised, men—is that if the state
